BWYQ Level 4 Qualification Certificate in Teaching Yoga

Starting October 2020

Your financial commitment

- The two introductory/induction workshop days will cost £25 each, meaning a cheque for £50 made payable to S. Beck will need to be sent with your application form or the sum can be sent electronically to Sarah Beck at the Co-operative Bank Sort code: 08-92-80 Account Number: 03419779 where you will need to include your name as a reference.

- If you have not yet joined the BWY then once you have a place on the Diploma Course you will need to do so at their website. Currently the BWY membership fees are £76 which also includes your insurance to teach and this will have to be renewed each year. If you already have a membership then you will need to update it to a student teacher membership.

- There is a one-off Registration Fee of £100 to be paid to BWYT and £100 to BWYQ before the course commences. This includes registration, administration and internal verification for the whole course.

- You will also need to complete the BWY Essentials of Anatomy and Physiology Course, to be found on the BWY website; this costs £75 and you can do the course online at your own pace before the course starts or within the first three months of the course. If you can however prove prior learning then you will not need to undertake this course, although it is recommended as unlike most A & P courses it is focused upon yoga.

- Course fees, to include all assessments, will be £2325 to be spread over the period of the course to be paid at six monthly intervals.

- The initial deposit of £200 is non-refundable and for each part of the course the fees are non-refundable once each payment has been made.

- There is a mandatory requirement for first aid training which can be a one day event run by the BWY or any other registered provider, this will need to be done before you start to teach.

- There will also be costs involved in any seminars, in-service days and retreats attended during the course.

- The good news is that you will be able to establish your own yoga class during the first year of your training, and even one weekly class can pay for your course fees!
